FRIDAY

AN EXCLUSIVE
SERVICE OF THE
TURRACHER HÖHE

At your service

Just before the sun rises over the peaks, the air is so clear it almost rings. The snow lies untouched, as if the night had rolled out the white carpet just for you. And in the “Living room” at the Kornockbahn, someone is waiting who already knows where this day will take you.

The heart of the Turracher Höhe: your butler Christian and his team.

You recognise them by their bow tie and a smile that says: we’ve been waiting for you. They know every slope, every Arolla pine, every story of this mountain. But their finest gift is time. Time that creates memories and feels like a real holiday again.

You walk through the glittering morning forest, then coffee warms your cold hands. You lay the first track on an untouched slope or catch a glimpse behind the scenes of the mountain railways. And you see the mountains of the Turracher Höhe through the eyes of those who love them.

With every step in the Arolla pine forest, something falls away from you. There is the first laugh when your snowshoe sinks into the crunching snow. There are your little snow sprites, running ahead with short steps. And then it grows so quiet that you can hear your heart beating.

And so the morning lingers on and writes its own music. With rustic, trusting tones, people once called to each other across the alpine pastures: with the yodel. Vinzenz Härtel-Schreiber carries this heritage on like an echo. Following an old instinct, your voice still feels its way hesitantly towards the first note. And suddenly it echoes between the Arolla pines, as if it had always belonged here.

Add to that warm huts, regional delicacies and glowing cheeks. Rock crystals that have waited millions of years for you. With Roswitha, you discover in the quiet Weitental valley what treasures hide in trees and branches. And when night falls and the stars begin to sparkle, you do the same: torches in hand, you light your way around the snow-covered lake.

In spring the snow goes, but the warmth remains. Then your butlers lead you into the sunrise, to the herbs of the alpine pastures and to the first arrow that finds its mark. With the Butlercard, the mountain railway takes you up every day, and with every ride you experience your holiday anew.

Welcome to the Turracher Höhe. Be our guest. And see you soon, my friend – we’ll meet again.

Would you like a little more?
